

Fischer Hall Open House and Game Watch

Meet the Speakers

Keith Surridge, Professor of History, Ph.D (King's College London), F.R.Hist. S.

Keith Surridge has taught history at the University of Notre Dame London Global Gateway for over twenty years. His publications include Managing the South African War, 1899-1902, Politicians vs Generals (1998) and (with Denis Judd), The Boer War (2002). His current research interests focus on British India's north-west frontier during the late nineteenth-century, however, his real passion is English football. He has occasionally held lectures on the history of English football for London Global Gateway students and is also quiz master at the biannual student pub quiz.

The First World War - A Battlefield Tour

In his talk The First World War - A Battlefield Tour, Professor Surridge will discuss the battles of the Somme (1916) and Third Ypres (1917) based on both contemporary photographs and those he took in 1985 while touring the battlefields. He will be delighted to take questions afterwards and to discuss Britain's wider war.

Sign up to Fischer Hall Open House this week via your email invitation!

Notre Dame London t-shirts (£10) and sweatshirts (£20) will be available to purchase on the day - cash only.